Third Wounded At Folsom Prison In Desperate Plot; Guards Subdue Attempt During Ball Game

FOLSOM PRISON, Cal., April 7.—Two convicts are dead today and a third is dangerously wounded as the result of a desperate attempt of the trio to make a break for liberty. The dead are: Harry Stewart, 34, and Edward W. H. Tinkler, 35, both of whom were serving life terms for San Francisco robberies. Tinkler was killed by a guard's bullet while the three were in the middle of a baseball game. The convicts started their dash for freedom while a baseball game was being played in the "upper yard." Before the men had gone more than 250 yards, and were still inside the prison walls, Stewart

GIBSON BROADCAST CONSIDERED SALES SPEECH FOR TREATY

Ambassador Claims Tri-Partite Pact Is Economical

WASHINGTON, April 7.—Ambassador Hugh Gibson's broadcast to the American people outlining for the first time what has been accomplished at the London naval parley was interpreted in various ways here.

Many considered it a sort of salesman's talk to sell to the American people a three-power treaty which will fall far short of the program worked out on the bank of the Rapidan last fall by President Hoover and Premier Ramsay MacDonald. Gibson expressed "good reason to hope that a five-power agreement may be signed before we leave," but that hope was not shared in official circles.

Chief interest lay in Gibson's figures of actual saving in money the treaty he expects the three great naval powers, Great Britain, Japan and the United States will sign.

He placed this at between $800,000,000 and $900,000,000 figured on the basis of nine battleships being scrapped without replacement, and an agreement by Great Britain, Japan and the United States not to lay down during the next six years the twenty-six capital ships scheduled as replacements during that period by the Washington treaty of 1922.

Such an agreement, he said, was reached by the three powers last week.

"How much of that will be spent after 1936," he added, "depends on the next conference."

FOX FILM STOCK GAINS ON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 7.—Fox Film class A stock jumped to $50 a share for a gain of 9 5/8 points, at the opening of the stock market today, following announcement of the sale by William Fox of his class B stock holdings to General Theaters Equipment, Loews Inc., jumped 3 1/2 points to 1 1/4, and Warner Brothers lost 1 3/4 at 73 and Radio Corp. was down 1 1/4 at 59.

The utility, theatrical and specialty stocks were active and firm at the opening. National Bellas Hess jumped 8 points to 29 on rumors of a merger with one of the larger mercantile houses.

Standard Gas sold up 2 1/4 at 121 1/2; United Corporation was up 1/4 at 46 5/8; Consolidated Gas up 1/4 at 131 1/4; North American up 1/8 at 130.

THREE CAUGHT IN ICE FLOES

CHARLEVOIX, Mich., April 7.—With a strong ice blowing, three men who were held fast in a small boat in ice floes just outside the harbor today were in grave peril of drowning.

The men, Joseph Smith, Ernest Smith, and Charles Archer, were bound out to lift fish nets when a shift in the wind turned the ice floes until they were completely encircled.

Oscar Smith, captain of a coast-guard tug, put out to aid them but the crush of the ice made all efforts futile.

SHOOT BROTHER IN FUSS OVER 35 CENTS

KINGSTON, N. Y., April 7.—Because his brother, Thomas Massey, disputed owing him thirty-five cents, the price of a dozen eggs, James Massey, of Milton, near here, is dead, and Thomas is a prisoner in the Ulster County jail charged with murder in the first degree.

James purchased three dozen eggs for family use, the brothers living together, but Thomas claimed the price of his share was too high. In the dispute which followed Thomas shot his brother through the heart with a shot gun.

The dead man was married. His wife is said to be living in South Carolina.

MRS. M'CORMICK IS BETTING FAVORITE IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Woman Favored Over Deneen In Contest For Senate

CHICAGO, April 7.—The most remarkable senatorial primary the country has ever witnessed drew to a close in Illinois today in a welter of excitement and dramatic tension.

For the first time in history, a woman—Mrs. Ruth Hanna McCormick—is making a real bid for the senate. She has organization, money and brains back of her. The voters of Illinois will decide tomorrow whether she or Senator Chas. S. Deneen is to be the Republican nominee for the senate in November.

The betting favors Mrs. McCormick—whatever that may be worth in a political contest. In Chicago's famed loop district eight will get you five that the daughter of one senator and the widow of another will be returned victor tomorrow over an incumbent senator whose record Mrs. McCormick has lashed and flayed from one end of the state to the other.

The betting odds are indicative of popular opinion in the loop. But betting odds do not determine an election contest, particularly one which is as unusual, as unique as this Deneen-McCormick battle.

The imponderable element, in the opinion of the Illinois sages, is the woman element. If this contest were between two men and the preliminary indications the same as exist today, the betting fraternity would lay the eight to five without undue perturbation.

Yet the fact is undeniable that the shrewdest political guessers confess themselves stumped over what they call, for want of a better term, "the woman angle."

Will the voters of a politically hardbitten state like Illinois vote for a woman for one of the major political offices of the land? The answer to that question, in the opinion of the leaders, is the answer to tomorrow's contest.

All the surface odds appear to favor Mrs. McCormick, but it is the so-called silent vote, the vote behind the sheet in the voting booth that will decide the issue.

The eve of decision found both candidates and both camps confident. They campaigned right up to the starting line. So hectic is this contest that both Mrs. McCormick and Senator Deneen abandoned the old custom of resting on the day before the primary. Today found them both speaking to noon-day audiences, radio audiences, and getting in lusty last licks at each other's record.

BURNS HOUSE FOR INSURANCE

Columbus Man Held Under Bond

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—William W. Mononey, 27, today was awaiting action of the grand jury, under $3,000 bond, charged with setting his own residence afire so that he might collect the insurance.

After spending many tedious hours constructing an intricate automatic device which would start a fire in the attic at any set time, he carefully laid plans failed when he forgot to open a window in order that the fire might have plenty of oxygen to make fast headway, it is alleged. Instead, the blaze spread very slowly and was extinguished by firemen with little difficulty.

Mononey, found at the home of a friend shortly after the fire was put out, is said to have confessed to the attempted destruction of his home. He admitted that he had renewed his policy of $2,700 on the house last Thursday.

Emulating Father

ADMITS HE FAKED
REPORT OF ROBBERY

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—An admittedly "faked" report to police that he had been held up and robbed of a small amount of money and a taxicab which he had been hired to drive, today had led to the city jail for William Copeland, 24, the taxicab driver.

Copeland admitted, detectives claim, that he made the report because he did not want to be criticized for spending the money and using the company's gasoline to take a girl-friend for a ride.

NEWARK, O., April 7.—Joseph Getton, 42, a watchman for the state highway department, is in a local hospital today suffering from burns which he sustained when a can of kerosene exploded as he was pouring part of the fluid into a heated stove.

With his clothes in flames, the man ran from his house and jumped into a shallow cistern. He then returned to the house and beat out the fire.

Getton, though in a serious condition, is expected to recover.

HEIR TO MILLIONS

Alexis Thompson, 15, son of the late David P. Thompson, Chicago steel magnate, is heir to his father's entire estate of between $2,500,000 and $5,000,000. Alexis is a student at an academy at Concord, Mass. His mother, who had been divorced from his father, will be his custodian.

SUITS TO RESTRAIN STEEL MERGER WILL HALT PROCEEDINGS

New Actions Legal Obstacles To Bar Consolidation

CLEVELAND, April 7.—Three new suits seeking to restrain the consummation of the merger of the Youngstown Sheet and Tube Co. with Bethlehem Steel Corporation, were filed here and at Youngstown today as hearing was begun in the United States District court here on a plea that the court halt the consolidation proceedings with an injunction. Two of the new suits were filed in the Mahoning County common pleas court in Youngstown by Arthur B. Taylor, Elvira banker and stockholder of Sheet and Tube, who already has one suit pending.

The third suit was filed in the federal district court here by the International Shares Corporation, in the name of W. R. Burwell, president.

The filing of the additional suits was seen as a precautionary move to stop the merger in case the petition filed in federal court here Saturday in the name of B. R. Shover of Pittsburgh, as a stockholder of the Sheet and Tube Co., should be refused.

The Shover petition asks the court to restrain stockholders of Sheet and Tube from meeting to morrow in Youngstown to vote on the merger proposal and seeks a blanket injunction to stop all other moves to effect the merger.

END OF CONFERENCE DELAYED; PASSAGE MUST BE CANCELLED

Delegates Marking Time Pending Return Of Briand

LONDON, April 7.—In spite of the fact they have already booked passage aboard the Levianth for that date, it appeared improbable today that the American delegation to the London naval conference would be able to sail for home on April 22 as they had planned.

Departure of the American delegation on April 22 would necessitate winding up of the conference by a week from Thursday at the latest, in order not to interfere with the Easter holidays.

Even if they abandon hope of a five-power treaty, it seems unlikely that all the preliminaries necessary for formulation of a three-power pact could be completed by that time.

Heads of the various delegations held conference of minor importance today, but otherwise the parley marked time pending the return from Paris of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand. When he arrives back in London, the security pact negotiations will be continued.

BURGLAR CAUGHT

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—Joseph Johnston, 50, a negro, is in jail here today after having been caught, allegedly, in the act of robbing the home of Walter H. Martin here. A burglar alarm on the window resulted in the negro's arrest. The Martins are in Florida.

MOTHER KILLED
CHILLICOTHE, O., April 7.—Mrs. Rona L. Hannan, mother of James Hannan, prominent publisher of the Scioto Gazette here, was killed Saturday when a train struck her automobile at a grade crossing near Lawley, Florida, according to advices which had been received here today.

TWO FLYERS KILLED
LONDON, April 7.—The German mail plane, bound for Berlin, crashed and burned today at Limsfield, near the airfield. Pilot Vesel and Engineer Connert were killed and the mail destroyed.

CLEVELAND ARREST COMPLETES SEARCH FOR CUTTEN ROBBER

Magnate Finances Long Crook Hunt; Eight Caught

CLEVELAND, O., April 7.—A hearing was scheduled here today for a man arrested here who claims to be Charles Davis, but whom police have identified as Simon Rosenberg, long-wanted underworld chieftain, whose hoodlum gang robbed Arthur W. Cutten, Chicago grain magnate, and locked him and his family in a basement vault of the Cutten country home near Chicago.

The self-styled Davis was arrested early yesterday in the basement of a Cleveland Heights apartment house after he had been trailed here from Chicago and Detroit by Detective Lieutenant Johnson of Chicago.

Johnson aided by Deputy Inspector Joseph Sweeney of Cleveland, investigated a tip that the fugitive had taken an apartment in Cleveland Heights. They searched the basement garage for a car bearing a Michigan license. While prowling about the basement, the car they were seeking drove in.

Pouncing on the driver, the officers overcame the man and took him into custody. At Central police station, Davis was said to have partially admitted his identity.

Twelve hours after his arrest, a writ of habeas corpus was issued by Common Pleas Judge George P. Baer at the request of Albert Levine, attorney. The writ, however, was expected to do the suspect no good, since Chicago authorities requested that the man be believed to be Rosenberg be held for federal officials on prohibition charges.

Rosenberg, according to Johnson, was trailed here from Detroit, where he has been working in a bond house for three years.

CHICAGO, April 7.—Arthur W. Cutten, multi-millionaire wheat and stock trader, looked today to day with satisfaction on his eight year search for nine bandits who tried to suffocate him and his family in a $50,000 holdup in their Downers Grove mansion here.

Cutten's relentless search yesterday resulted in the arrest in Cleveland of a man believed to be Simon Rosenberg, whom police say is the eighth of the nine bandits to be captured. Cutten left for Cleveland last night to appear against Rosenberg today.

With tireless persistence and the expenditure of untold thousands of dollars the wheat magnate has brought about the capture and imprisonment of the bandit gang one by one. Only one now remains at large and Cutten says he is willing to spend additional thousands to bring about his capture and prosecution.

HE WORKS, WIVES GET MONEY

LOS ANGELES, April 7.—Life to Spafford Wyckoff, 38, is just one alimony payment after another, it was disclosed here today.

He has been married four times. Each of his wives has blessed him with a son. Wife number one gets $150 monthly; wife number two receives a $300 check each month; wife three gets five dollars less a month. When wife number four received a divorce, she was awarded $100 a month.

Wyckoff, who had his divorce from spouse number four set aside in order that he might sue on a similar action, told the court his income was $300 a month.

FRENCH CABINET APPROVES BRIAND

PARIS, April 7.—The French cabinet today gave its stamp of approval on the activities of Foreign Minister Aristide Briand at the London naval conference.

The cabinet, at a special meeting, commended M. Briand for "maintaining all points of France's attitude" at the parley.

The foreign minister declined to discuss reports of alleged security formulas reached between Britain and France save to characterize them as "newspaper inventions."

EXTORTION CASE OPENS

Dancer Goes On Trial For Blackmailing Former Lover; Promise Sensation

NEW YORK, April 7.—A legal battle as acrid as the famous Stillman divorce and paternity case was promised today at the opening of the trial of Olga Elde Edwards, pretty dancer, for alleged extortion.

Nathan Leo Amster, public utility magnate, who once courted Miss Edwards, denied the paternity of her 6-year-old son, Lee. He charges blackmail.

Miss Edwards has declared she will fight to the finish for a $100,000 trust fund for herself and son. She claims an agreement with Amster provided for $500 monthly for the support of her child.

When the allowance by Amster was stopped recently, Miss Edwards started legal action.

The utility millionaire had the former actress arrested on a charge of extortion declaring he "was tired of being lied."

The introduction of the love diary of Miss Edwards is expected to add interest to the trial.

The dancer claims she is destitute. Her child is now under the care of the Children's Society.

WHERE BANK ROBBERS MADE "HAUL"

Police have been searching for five masked gunmen who held up and robbed the Xenia Ave. branch, above, of the Union Trust Co., Dayton, O., of $46,000 in currency.

GANDHI CAMPAIGN OF DISOBEDIENCE GOES ON DESPITE ARRESTS

Leader's Son Held With Fifty Others Defying British

BOMBAY, April 7.—The campaign of "non-violent disobedience," inaugurated by Mahatma Gandhi yesterday at the village of Dandi, was in full swing today. His son, his chief lieutenant and more than fifty others were in jail, but the leader, unmolested, continued directing the conduct of the movement.

Manilal Kothari, senior lieutenant of the Gandhian staff was taken into custody with fifty-five volunteers at the village of Viramgam for manufacturing salt. Kothari was tried, convicted and sentenced to pay a heavy fine or languish in jail. Ram Das, Gandhi's son, also was taken by police while engaged in illegal salt manufacture.

Police in several towns and cities were in clashes last night with railroad strikers and a number were slightly injured. In other places "non-violent" disobeyers were beaten from the railroad tracks where they had lain to stop traffic.

Gandhi today sent out word that all workers should emulate his action yesterday in violating the law and making salt. "The salt monopoly is an outrage," he said. "The people will not be subjected to such unjust taxation. They will continue their passive resistance until they have won independence."

SCORE HURT IN CHICAGO RIOT

Parade Followed By Street Fight

CHICAGO, April 7.—Nearly a score of persons were suffering today from serious injuries inflicted yesterday when the United Ukrainian Societies of Chicago held a parade and mass meeting of protest against Soviet activities.

Squads of police reserves guarded the paraders following the clash to prevent further violence. The clash, involving 2,500 persons, broke out at the St. Nicholas Ukrainian Church when Communists distributing literature against the parade were dispersed and the leaflets destroyed.

Dozens of persons were slugged and trampled in the melee. Three are known to have suffered fractured skulls.

A resolution was passed at the meeting in protest against the "barbaric, ruthless persecution of the Ukrainian Orthodox Church on the part of the Soviet Government in Ukraine."

BURNED BY BLAST

MARYSVILLE, O., April 7.—Mrs. Ernest Hoffman was seriously burned today when she threw kerosene on live coals. The five-gallon can exploded enveloping Mrs. Hoffman in flames. The residence caught fire and was badly damaged.

ANTI-FASCISTI RIOTS KILL ONE

NEW YORK, April 7.—Authorities sought today to identify the body of a man shot and killed with the same bullet which wounded another in a riot at an anti-Fascist meeting in Cooper Union.

Detective Thomas Lillenthal fired the shot, claiming he was attacked by the audience when he went to the aid of a federal agent who attempted to arrest Armando Borghi, the speaker.

Borghi, sought for four years as an anarchist, spoke from the same platform from which Abraham Lincoln once leaped, and escaped from the historic hall as the agent approached him.

Dynamite believed to have been mixed with the coal in the engine's tender by accident, was shoveled into the firebox.

TOKIO, April 7.—Seventeen persons were killed and many seriously injured today when the engine of a passenger train exploded at Kyushu.

Dynamite believed to have been mixed with the coal in the engine's tender by accident, was shoveled into the firebox.

HAWKS PILOTS GLIDER IN TOW ACROSS NATION

Flyer Acclaimed In New York As Trip Is Completed

NEW YORK, April 7.—Captain Frank M. Hawks was honored in New York today for adding another lusty chapter to man's conquering of the air. Completing the first coast-to-coast glider flight, believed the Hawks arrived here yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock, towed by an airplane driven by J. D. Jennigan.

His actual flying time for the 2,860 miles covered was thirty-six hours and forty-two minutes. Counting twenty stops made en route his time was six and one-half days.

On his arrival Hawks revealed he was caught in a terrific storm, near Syracuse, N. Y., his glider suddenly soaring from 3,000 to 6,000 feet. Twice, so violently was the sailplane tossed about, he decided to leap for his life in a parachute. He exhibited blistered hands to show how desperately he battled with the glider controls as he rode out the storm.

A crowd of 15,000 braved a rain to watch Hawks' red glider gracefully to earth at Van Cortlandt Park. He was wildly cheered. He brought with him the first glider mail in history and a small palm tree, a gift of the mayor of San Diego to New York's executive.

Among the first to greet the flyer was Captain Franz Carl Schlieff, German war veteran, who handed Hawks $100 in bills. He had bet the glider flight could not be made.

BANDITS ROB MOVIE OFFICE

Obtain $1,500 In Raid On Theater

TOLEDO, O., April 7.—Two bandits, who coolly executed a daring robbery here late last night, robbing the manager's office of the Strand Theater of $1,500 are being sought by police here today. The sum consisted of the week-end receipts of the Strand circuit movie houses, which included six movie houses.

One bandit entered the manager's office, and after forcing Nathan B. Charnas to open the safe there, bound and gagged him with tire tape.

As he was prepared to flee, the second bandit marched T. L. Myatt, a manager of one of the chain theaters, into the room at the point of a .45 caliber revolver. Myatt was relieved of the receipts of his theater. He, too, was bound and gagged.

The two victims were released almost immediately by a former employee of the company who chanced into the office.

GRIMES TO APPEAL DIVORCE ACTION

CANTON, O., April 7.—Charging that the common pleas court erred in dismissing his divorce petition against his wife, Florence Ruth Grimes, Burleigh Grimes, Pittsburgh Pirate pitching ace, announced today that he will take the case to the court of appeals.

Faber J. Druckenbrod, Grimes' attorney, said he would file the petition for the baseball player.

Grimes' divorce case was suddenly brought to a close last Friday when Judge Harvey F. Ake dismissed the case upon the request of the baseball player's wife.

Judge Ake declared at the time that the charges brought by Grimes against his wife did not warrant divorce action. He accused Grimes of coming into the case with "unclean hands."

Grimes sought the divorce from his wife on the grounds of incompatibility and gross neglect of duty.

SWISS TEMPERANCE LAW IS RATIFIED

GENEVA, April 7.—Switzerland's temperance law, increasing taxes on alcohol and empowering the government to take over all private distilleries was ratified in a national referendum yesterday. Final returns today showing 487,340 voting for the law and 214,316 against. Slightly over eighty per cent of the electorate voted.

Temperance leaders in the government say that Switzerland will now become a "wine and beer" nation. The heavy taxes on alcohol and the government liquor monopoly tending to send prices for "hard liquor" to a scale beyond the reach of the masses.

BANDIT SOUGHT

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—Police today are searching for a lone bandit who waylaid Mr. and Mrs. Lee Cunningham as they parked their car in the garage and robbed them of $60 and a watch which was valued at $30. The bandit then forced the Cunninghams into their home and looted it of a $250 diamond ring and an additional $15.

EDWARD WEISS SEVERELY HURT

Struck By Auto On Pike Sunday

Edward Weiss, Lower Bellbrook Pike, is a patient at Espey Hospital, recovering from serious injuries suffered when he was knocked down by an auto on the Cincinnati Pike in front of the C. C. Faulkner farm residence, one mile south of Xenia, Sunday morning at 10:15 o'clock.

Weiss had parked his own car and started across the road when he became confused and stepped directly in the path of an auto driven by David Sharp, 2424 Maryland Ave., Cincinnati, according to a report made to police.

Dr. Paul D. Espey was called and the injured man was removed in an ambulance of J. H. Whitmer, to Espey Hospital, where an examination disclosed he received a broken right forearm, fractured small bone in the right leg, two or three shattered ribs on the right side, a cut over the right eye and possible internal injuries.

WHITEWING SAVED TRUNKFUL OF CENTS TO PAY MORTGAGE

WORCESTER, Mass., April 7.—A trunk filled with pennies once paid off the mortgage on Johnny Boyden's home. Johnny Boyden, whose name on the city payroll is John A. Boyden, is a Worcester whitewing and has been for twenty years or more.

Johnny once packed crackers in a local bakery for $10 or $12 a week. The drivers for the concern used to bring in pocketfuls of one cent pieces after covering their routes, and, as the banks did not find the demand for copper coins as great in those days as it is now, much of Johnny's pay consisted of pennies.

He worked steadily, saved his money and after a while was able to buy a home for his father and mother, paying $1400 down and giving a mortgage of $1,000 for the remainder. He arranged matters so that while he paid $4.50 for board and lodging, the usual rate for that time, his mother took care of the interest of $60 a year.

Hard times struck the country and Mrs. Boyden had to tell her son she did not have the money with which to meet the payments on the mortgage.

"Go upstairs," he told her, "and see if there is enough in my trunk."

As Mrs. Boyden lifted the lid she gasped. The trunk was filled with 100,000 pennies that her son had been tucking away, week by week. There was enough there and Johnny knew it. He knew to a penny. He called in a husky truckman—he had to be a husky man as the coins weighed 700 pounds—and they carted the lot down to the bank which held the mortgage. Here several clerks put in several hours counting that trunkful of money.

Johnny Boyden still lives in the house he bought so many years ago, but now he shares it with his brother, Walter. Though both are on the friendliest terms, and get along as sociably as brothers ever do, they differ from the ordinary run of mankind in one respect—each buys his own food, and if cooking is necessary the one for whom the food is intended cooks it.

POTATOES READY TO START GROWING SAYS SPECIALIST

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—Ambitious potatoes have caught the spring fever and are anxious to get busy on their season's growth—so anxious that they are sprouting in a good many storage pits over the state.

"Get 'em out," advises E. R. Tussing, extension specialist in vegetable gardening for the Ohio State University here.

Tussing refers to the potatoes which have been saved for seed. Table stock potatoes should all be out and on the market by this time, in his opinion. But something has to be done about the seed potatoes which the growers are not yet ready to plant. Tussing says the tubers are bound to sprout from now on. If they are taken from the storage pits or bins and spread in thin layers on dry floors where they will get plenty of air and light, the sprouts will be short, stubby and green. Otherwise they will be long and white. Further, the potatoes left in large heaps may start to rot.

"And another thing," says the vegetable specialist, "seed potatoes imported from northern states in cold cars should be warmed for a week before they are planted. It isn't safe to take them right out of the ice cars and put them into the ground, or leave them stacked up in sacks. They should have the same treatment as the potatoes taken from the storage pits—empty them out of the sacks and spread them where they can get light and air for a week before they are planted."

MEET "JAKE AND LENA"

Unusual Success Of Radio Couple Brings Riches In Fairy Tale Manner

By BONITA WITT
Central Press Staff Writer

CLEVELAND, O., April 7.—Folks, met Gene and Glenn, Jake and Lena, that unusual quartet whose microphone antics make lazy people rise at seven o'clock in the morning to listen to their nonsense and whose phenomenal popularity is making radio history.

Gene and Glenn, you know (if you're "up on your radio" at all) are Gene Carroll and Glenn Rowell, and Jake and Lena are imaginary characters impersonated by Gene who have become so real to listeners that a large portion of the mail and presents received at the studio is addressed to them personally. Their unprecedented success is the wonder of radioland today. It's rarely if ever that they don't get at least 2,000 letters every 24 hours and one day the station was swamped with 7,200.

Admirers send them everything from rolling pins to canaries.

Not Long Ago Yet a more unsophisticated pair of stars or less high hat you never saw for Gene hasn't forgotten the days when he was a small time vaudeville performer and Glenn recalls that not so long ago he was plugging songs for a modest sum. They believe the secret of their success is the enjoyment which they themselves get out of their broadcasting. Gene, a natural clown, injects so much comedy into their act on the spur of the moment that Glenn doesn't find it at all hard to let his contagious laugh rumble forth.

When the studio began to be swamped with calls from states as far distant as Iowa inquiring about Gene and Glenn and people began to come in droves to watch the broadcasting a Cleveland vaudeville theater decided to engage the pair.

At last they signed for $2,000 a week and a percentage of all receipts over $27,500. They were forced to give five performances daily instead of the customary four to accommodate the crowds which stood in lines stretching blocks from the ticket booth and are believed to have broken all national vaudeville records. Their share was $12,000.

Folk Come Long Distance

When Carroll and Rowell had appeared previously at a theater in Willoughby, O., a Cleveland suburb, people came from West Virginia to see them. Fan mail has been received from every one of the forty-eight states and from as widely separated places as the tip of Florida and Wrangell Island, Alaska.

When the partners decided to put on the early morning programs, as well as evening, everyone tried to discourage them.

"Who ever heard of anyone being funny in the morning? People are grouchy that early and don't want to laugh." But the hunch proved a good one and they have as large a morning following as evening, although irate husbands write into say their wives are so busy listening in they forget to prepare breakfast.

Their Make-Believe Wedding For a month before the wedding of Jake and Lena set for April 1, their names were on the lips of people everywhere.

When Jake was kidnaped from the vestry, as the strains of the wedding march pealed forth, the station was deluged with telegrams and calls from people offering to help search for him.

Gene, the thin member of the combination has a wife who broadcasts occasionally and three children, Therese, eight, Gene, six and Mary, three. He wears trick spats and soft toed shoes and his favorite beverage is milk. Glenn, round and just a wee bit more serious has a 11-year-old son, Glenn, who wants to be a radio star, too, and a baby daughter, Patsy.

Both have a hobby—Glenn Lake, Mich., 20 miles west of Traverse City, and they are counting the days until June 15 when they will be free to go there with their families and—of course—Jake and Lena. In that quiet spot, however, Jake and Lena forget they ever saw a microphone and their chief interest is swimming.

A tip . . . from Andrew Carnegie

ASKED to explain his phenomenal success, Andrew Carnegie blandly attributed it to his ability to get men to work for him who knew more than he did.

And that's a formula for success. Nobody who is really successful does all the work himself. He employs other people's minds and efforts.

Do you do the same in the intricate business of running your home and taking care of your family? You can, quite easily.

You can employ specialists in diet; you can serve the master dishes of famous chefs; you can have the advice of style authorities in selecting your clothes, of whole electrical laboratories in buying household appliances, by reading the advertisements.

All the newest knowledge—knowledge millions of dollars and years of effort have won—is contained in the advertisements.

If you will use the advertisements in this newspaper as Andrew Carnegie used men who knew more than he did, every dollar you spend will be spent wisely, economically, and will return full measure of satisfaction. That's the way to be a success in the greatest business in the world—making a home.

ENTERTAINED WITH BIRTHDAY DINNER

Mr. and Mrs. John B. Shultz were delightfully entertained with a birthday dinner at their home on Chestnut St., Sunday, the occasion being Mr. Shultz's seventy-second birthday.

It was tentatively decided at a recent meeting of county school superintendents to hold the banquet at the Masonic Temple in Xenia and indications are that about 450 people will be in attendance.

The largest number of reservations in the history of the yearly affair has been made and the reception is expected to be more largely attended than any previous banquet of its kind.

The juniors of the nine schools will entertain the seniors and honor guests will include school teachers, members of boards of education and their wives and school superintendents.

Following Dr. Clifton's address, the program calls for a theater party. At about 9 o'clock the banquet will adjourn to the Bijou Theater to see a talking motion picture.

Beavercreek, Caesar Creek, Cedarville, Ross Twp., Jamestown, Bowlersville, Yellow Springs, Bellbrook and Springfield Valley high schools are co-operating in the affair.

Expenses of the banquet will be defrayed by the junior classes.

Milton Campbell, Cincinnati, national vice commander of the American Legion, will be the chief speaker of the evening and will discuss the state and national program of the Legion as well as the organization's place in the life of the community.

L. J. Zeller, Springfield, grand chef de gare of the Ohio Forty and Eight Society, a branch of the Legion, will be present and Mrs. Moore, Newark, O., secretary of the state American Legion auxiliary will also attend the affair, which is being arranged in an effort to unite various civic interests.

Men representing various community interests will be called upon for short impromptu talks.

Dinner will be served promptly at 6:30 o'clock and because of the limited accommodations reservations will be necessary to attend the banquet.

An interesting program of entertainment has also been arranged, featuring George E. Nearpass, Indianapolis, Ind., Pennsylvania Railroad employee, known as the "Whistling Brakeman," who is a well known radio and vaudeville entertainer.

The famous Rainbow Quartet, another Pennsylvania Railroad product will also appear on the program and the cadet band of the O. S. and S. O. Home will play during the banquet. The Rainbow Quartet broadcasts frequently over radio.

ing the morning worship Sunday.

Mr. Nycum, who has had considerable experience in mission organization and some ecclesiastical survey work, was well received and his sermon on the subject, "God is Love," won favorable comment.

The love of God, he said, is the key-note of Christian experience and is the result of God's revelation. He added that the love of God is unchangeable and it is always the same even through eternity. He compared it to the love and affection of the human race and pointed out the unreliability in the latter case. To make his statement more effective he declared that no mother's love can be compared to the love of Almighty God, and that it does not measure the heights or the depths of that love. Allusion was made to the love of God toward Jesus at Calvary and that it is an unfailing source of comfort and solace which all believers are privileged to enjoy.

BIBLE THOUGHT FOR TODAY

CHRIST-LIKE SERVICE — Be kindly affected one to another with brotherly love; in honour preferring one another. Not slothful in business; fervent in spirit; serving the Lord; Rejoicing in hope; patient in tribulation; continuing instant in prayer; Distributing to the necessity of saints; given to hospitality.—Romans 12:10-13.

AIR AND OCEAN

While the Europa was ploughing through the waves to New York, a group of American financiers was meeting in that city with Dr. Hugo Eckener and planning to transfer trans-Atlantic travel from the ocean to the air. Specifically, what they were considering was the establishment of a regular international airship service between Europe and the United States. The capital represented at the conference could not be stated in less than ten figures. At the close of the meeting Dr. Eckener announced that a company had been formed and the capital subscribed; and that by the end of the year it would be possible to go ahead with construction and operation. The coincidence of this event with the record-breaking voyage of the Europa arouses speculation as to the extent to which airships are likely to cut into the patronage of ocean going vessels.

Greater speed is the one substantial advantage airships have over ocean liners. A few people may be willing to pay the higher passage money and put up with comparatively cramped quarters in the air in order to escape seasickness or for the novelty of the trip; but for the most part airships will have to depend for their support on passengers to whom the time saved by traveling on them is worth the added cost and risk. The number of such is not great; and the time saved is not so great as some might suppose.

Airships are not airplanes. The Graf Zeppelin, with 60 persons aboard, took 3 days and 21 hours to make Lakehurst from Friedrichshafen last July, although it made the return trip in 55 hours and 24 minutes. The difference between the westward time of the Graf Zeppelin and that of the Europa was only 20 hours; and that might have been reduced to nil by adverse weather conditions. The importance of meteorological factors in the navigation of lighter-than-air ships is shown by the preference of the veteran commander of the Graf Zeppelin for the longer southern route past the Azores and his decision that no port in this country north of Baltimore would be suitable as the terminus of a regular zeppelin service.

When to these handicaps is added the fact that, as cargo carriers airships are restricted to mail and a small poundage of express matter which compels them to make expenses largely out of a few score passengers per trip, at rates in excess of those that need be charged on ocean vessels, a long time will have to elapse and air grayhounds will have to be devised vastly larger, speedier and safer in all weathers than the best of them to date have proved to be before any considerable proportion of the traveling public will cease to go down to the sea in ships.

BANKS OF TODAY

The opening of new branches by three banks in New York city on the same day is a reminder of the extent to which branch banking is being developed in parts of this country. One of these three banks already has no less than forty branches in New York. The present trend in banking practice promises more branch banks rather than fewer. As yet they are largely confined to the cities. The comptroller of the currency would extend them to rural districts.

After describing the expedients now resorted to in the effort to give small communities more efficient banking service, Comptroller Fole says in his last annual report that "these conditions would seem to warrant a further amendment of Section 5155 of the Revised Statutes of the United States as amended by the act of February 25, 1927, to permit national banks, with the approval of the comptroller of the currency, to establish branches within the trade areas of the cities in which such banks may be situated." This practice would supplement and possibly eventually replace the existing system of group banks, as well as reduce the operating handicap under which national banks find themselves as a result of the greater latitude enjoyed by state-chartered institutions. As Comptroller Fole puts it: "The proposal for the extension of branch banking which is here made would have the direct effect of establishing a strong system of banks in the rural districts and indirectly it would lead to the gradual restoration of the national banks as the primary system of commercial banking in the country." The proposal was so well thought of by Mr. Hoover that he embodied in his annual message to congress a suggestion that a commission be created to inquire into the subject.

The banking business plays so large and intimate a part in business as a whole that it inevitably follows the general trend of industry and commerce. The day when banks waited for business to come to them has gone. They now go after it. Group banks and branch banks are steps in bringing a higher type of banking practice within the reach of a larger percentage of the population.

HEALTH TALKIES

Advocating that able physicians, under the auspices of medical societies, ought to appear in talking motion pictures on the subject of health, Bruce Bliven, journalist, makes a good suggestion. Most doctors do not advertise, but that policy ought not to deprive the people of the widest possible distribution of ideas on the subject of health. Since one of our most common characteristics is our desire to get something for nothing we are easy marks for health cults fads and tangles that are not sound. We listen too much to those who do not know and do not have sufficient opportunity to hear those who do know. Fortunately, many newspapers now have daily health talks conducted by reputable men or women. That helps. Distributions by means of the talkies would also be greatly worth while.

IN A BIG WAY

There are some ins and outs and secrets of service which we the people get from large concerns that few of us think about. Did you know, for example, that to cover the cost of a dining car one passenger would have to be hauled 1,760,442 miles? Many corporations carry elaborate departments of service which are not profitable at all. As civilization grows older and people become more sophisticated and more critical, they demand more and more in the way of service—and get it.

THANKING UNCLE SAM

If you feel crabby and really don't want to be nice to anybody you always have reason to thank Uncle Sam for a lot of service. This writer has just learned that the average trip of a two-cent stamp is 760 miles. That's cheap transportation, and a two-cent stamp can bring you almost anything you want, if you know that to put under it.

THE QUESTION BOX

CENTRAL PRESS WASHINGTON BUREAU

Answers to questions of information and fact can be obtained by writing to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C., and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. No answers will be given to marital medical or legal questions.

Did George Washington have any children?

No. His wife, Martha Washington, had four by her first husband, Daniel Parke Custis, who died leaving her a wealthy widow. Two of these children died before the death of their father, and one at a later date. George Washington Parke Custis, a son of the only surviving child, John Custis, was adopted by his stepgrandfather. He became a well-known author of his time, among his works being the "Recollections of George Washington." His daughter, Mary Randolph Custis, married Robert E. Lee, Confederate general.

Bureau of Standards

What is the government bureau of standards? This bureau is charged with the custody of standards; comparison of standards with those used in science, industry, technology, commerce, and educational institutions; construction of standard measuring instruments; the solution of problems arising in connection with standards; the determination of physical constants and properties of materials. Its functions may be exercised for the national government, the state governments, and, subject to reasonable fees, the general public.

The Butter Trade

How much butter does the United States import and export? The latest figures reveal that in 1927, 8,460,000 pounds of butter were imported, compared to 4,343,000 pounds exported.

Al's Paleness

Why is "pale dry gingerale" so named? The paleness of gingerale is determined by the amount of caramel coloring used in its manufacture, while its dryness indicates the amount of sugar used. Dry gingerale has less sugar than other kinds. The term is an old one employed by those who first made wine.

Nancy Hanks' Father

Who was the father of Nancy Hanks, wife of Thomas Lincoln, and mother of Abraham Lincoln? Nancy Hanks was the daughter of Joseph Hanks and Nancy Shipley, the sister of Lucy Shipley, who married Richard Berry. The latter became the guardian of Nancy Hanks when her father died while she was still a child.

Alloys

What is an alloy? The term in a commercial sense means a combination of two or more metals which have been melted together. In a scientific sense it signifies a chemical combination analogous to a common solution of chemical salt in water; only in the case of two metals in an alloy, each is to be regarded as dissolved in the other.

(NOTE: Charles P. Stewart's treatise on "Our Government" can be obtained by sending ten cents in coin to Central Press Bureau, P. O. Box 126, Washington, D. C.)

Bo-Broadway

By JOSEPH VAN RAALTE

NEW YORK CITY, New York — An enterprising shoe dealer on the Rue de la Quique specializes in foot wear to order.

Melady gets a nut idea about shoes. She chug-chugs cross to the pedal parlor, unfolds her thought to an artist squatting before an easel—an intuitive chap, who reduces the idea to a sketch in charcoal.

Melady acquints at the drawing. It is changed in detail, here and there, at her suggestion and when it perfectly fits the thought she had in mind, a designer is summoned. Like the artist, the designer is a man of tact and perfect poise. By imperceptible stages, employing the finest of psychological processes he gets Melady to recede in one or two essentials, from her original wild and preposterous conception. And finally, when the design has been revamped until it falls within the possibilities of manufacture, Melady tips forth with a happy heart convinced that she has supplied the shoe trade with an idea that eventually will revolutionize it.

And the poor artist and the designer, taking a fresh grip on themselves, enter the lists with another patron.

Verily I say unto thee, Brother Barnum sure had the right dope!

Add Rackets

Fanny Brice, the lady who used to warble so plaintively about "Mon Homme," when Nicky Arnstein, her ex-husband, was languishing in Leavenworth penitentiary, chiseled a few minutes out of a crowded life the other day to air her views "touchin' on an' appertainin' to" etiquette.

"Fanny" paid her respects to Emily Post, the Etiquetteur who, like the late Bill Nye, feels that if she can get one man, who now wipes his hands on his pants, to come up a step higher, and wipe them on the tablecloth, she will not have lived in vain.

Nicky Arnstein's ex-wife sneers at that laudable Post ambition. "The etiquette business," gurgles Fanny, "is a racket, honey—a racket."

Not All the Digging Will Be Done in the Garden This Year

SIX OR EIGHT DISTINCT PARTIES PATTERNED AFTER EUROPEAN PLAN WOULD ELIMINATE BOGUS ISSUES

By CHARLES P. STEWART

WASHINGTON—Senator Brookhart, of Iowa, recently offered to plug for the Democratic candidate for president against Mr. Hoover in 1932—provided the Democrats will put up either Senator Norris of Nebraska, or Senator Borah, of Idaho.

Needless to state, no one expects the Democrats to do it. If they should, it simply would be an acknowledgment that the Democratic party of yore has ceased to exist—because neither Senator Norris nor Senator Borah can qualify as a Jeffersonian Democrat, by any manner of means.

To be sure, the Jeffersonian Democracy no longer exists anyway.

Plenty of so-called Democratic senators and representatives have no more Jeffersonianism in their system than Senator Norris or Senator Borah. However, their party is in the habit of considering them Democrats, so it is certain to nominate one of them in 1932.

Of course, Senator Brookhart understands this perfectly. What he said undoubtedly was a mere oratorical flourish; what he really meant was that he would like to vote for Senator Norris or Senator Borah at the head of a third presidential ticket.

Although one might think that the progressives would have had enough of third party attempts in 1924, perhaps it is suggestive that the Iowa senator is starting a movement in that direction, considering the time that it was started on the last occasion.

The G. O. P. is much worse split at the end of Mr. Hoover's first year in the White House than was the case up to the very end of Mr. Coolidge's fractional first term as president.

Mr. Coolidge never had more than six or eight Republican insurgents fighting him in the senate at any stage. Mr. Hoover has at least a dozen, plus half as many more unreliables. Moreover while the G. O. P. old guard always was rather cool toward the New Englander, it is fiercely hostile to his California successor—not noisily so, but none the less bitterly.

With so long a period in which to gain strength, there are politicians who believe rebellion is apt to gain formidable proportions between now and the next national campaign.

True, 1932 is guessing quite a way ahead.

This year's elections are not so far off, however, and it is the general opinion that their effect will be to add to the administration's difficulties—perhaps with and uncontrollable house of representatives as well as an unmanageable senate stirring up trouble, a mean-spirited new tariff developing itself, industrial and agricultural et that requires real strength of character to overcome. What isn't real isn't right; and if etiquette clutters up your life—why etiquette is "out." A pickle in the hand is worth five on the fork!

Here's hoping that Broadway doesn't take Aunt Fanny too seriously. If you ever drop into one of those Gold Letter Java joints in the neighborhood of Scandal Square some Sunday afternoon about candlelight time, and the boys and girls exercising their tonsils on the Battle Creek nectar, you'll understand that when Fanny Brice sneers at "etiquette," she isn't making life any easier for the rest of us.

conditions uncertain, prohibition enforcement possibly taking a turn for the worse, and a decided fizzle of a naval conference to look back on.

One thing is a certainty—Let events take as favorable a turn for Mr. Hoover as they may—sooner or later, a re-sorting of the country's political groups is inevitable.

The Republican and Democratic parties no longer signify anything. Or rather, they mean the same thing. Neither one has a single principle that it stands for—and yet there are plenty of principles literally howling out for representation.

It seems impossible but that presently one bloc or another will begin to gather them together and go into action on the strength of them.

The difficulty is that this program is well-nigh impossible also. Heaven knows there are principles enough—but they are conflicting. No one group can sponsor all of them—or any two groups, or three, or hardly half a dozen.

Senator Brookhart's group will serve as a radical nucleus—but it will be dry. How about the wet radicals? And the dry conservatives?—who surely cannot associate themselves with such conservatives as Senator Smoot, because he is drier than bone-dust. Likewise what will become of the intermediate group (the Young Turks) between the old guard and the ultra-liberals?

These groups, and a number of others, will not mix and stay mingled, except momentarily.

"The fact is, congress needs six or eight distinct little parties, coalescing and separating as different issues arise for consideration—coalition law-making as they call it in Europe, where it is a well-recognized parliamentary institution on a permanent basis.

Of course the idea is horrible to professional politicians—because it would mean that they could no longer fool the voters with bogus issues. Nevertheless, it obviously would effect a general averaging up of all the country's wishes in the line of legislation, a proper regard for the rights of minorities and a new set of public men who would have to tell what they stood for, in order to be elected. Naturally, as long as they can get away with it, the present crowd prefer the two-party system.

Sinusitis in Swimmers

In the papers of yesterday and the day before, I talked about sinusitis (inflammation of the cavities in the bones of the face connected with the nose). Today I will finish the series by telling you something of sinusitis and otitis (inflammation of the ears in swimmers), taken from the conclusions of Dr. George C. Saunders, an ear, nose and throat specialist, in an article published in the American Journal of Hygiene, Vol. X, page 253.

(If you are interested in this subject, please get the two preceding papers, because we do not yet have this printed in permanent form.)

"Two types of persons seem to be most frequently afflicted—beginners and expert divers. The former, because of improper training, get more water in their nasal passages and they are physically less developed and less resistant to infection. The latter often tax their upper respiratory tract beyond reasonable limits.

"By observation, and by talking with others, Dr. Saunders has been impressed by the fact that those who frequent the large and obviously more contaminated public pools seem to have more nasal and aural troubles. Children particularly are frequent sufferers from suppurative ears....

"The data obtained in the survey have been valuable in pointing the way toward the control of these infections, and to this end, certain preventive measures are suggested: One helpful precaution, which is almost universally neglected, is the use of an oil spray in the nose before entering the water. Since individuals with narrow nasal passages, and similar abnormalities, are more susceptible to infection than those having normal sinus drainage, it is wise for all persons wishing to do diving and to play water polo, to have a nasal examination followed, by medical or surgical treatment, if necessary. To these local measures, should be added the general precaution of controlling the length of the swimming period. Forty-five minutes in the water is probably long enough. Correct breathing is also of primary importance. Inhalation should always be through the mouth, while exhalation should be through nose and mouth simultaneously."

Mrs. E.: The tablets (or pills your physician prescribed for you, you can take more easily if you will place them on your tongue just as far back as you can reach. Then take a swallow of water. Anything placed so far back in the throat as this reaches the place where you must swallow, whether you want to or not, because of the action of the involuntary muscles—unless, of course, you force it up by gagging.

Living and Loving

By MRS. VIRGINIA LEE

"My Dear Virginia Lee: I have been married four years and have a sweet little girl three years old. My husband has wonderful qualities. I love him dearly, but my love is turning colder every day since we had to give up our home and help his father and mother.

"His mother and I just cannot agree. Whenever I correct my little girl she upholds her and she is getting spoiled. I gave up my religion for my husband and now my home. What more can a woman do for the love of her husband? He hands my mother-in-law the pay check to run the home and I never see any of it, and when he returns home from work evenings I tell him how his mother treats him, but he doesn't listen, and thinks I should be content. And he says if I would behave myself we would get along.

"I think my husband loves his mother more than he does us, or he would provide us with a home as other men do for their wives. His father is well and able bodied, but says he can't find any son far away from here and he never does anything to help his parents. Do you think that is right?"

"On account of the baby I don't like to divorce him, but I just can't keep on living like this and I tell him so, but he doesn't listen to me.

"I am now going to try and stay with my parents until he goes back to housekeeping again and if he doesn't then I know he no longer loves me and I will sue for divorce. Do you think I am right or wrong? Thank you, dear Miss Lee.

"TROUBLED MOTHER."

I think your husband shows little sense in turning his pay check over to his mother, and his mother has very little idea of what is due you when she accepts it, and when she interferes with the management of your child. She would not have liked it when she was a young wife, and she should be able to see your point of view.

Of course your husband could do nothing else than help his parents when your father-in-law got out of work. The other son may not, of course, be in a position to help them, but he should if he could. Times have been hard, but we hope they will be much better soon, and then, no doubt, your husband's father will be able to find something to do and relieve your husband of the extra burden.

My advice is to be patient for a little while. Yes, I know that I am asking a great deal, but try it and see if things won't straighten out without resorting to the divorce court. Don't tell your husband of his mother's treatment of you, as it does no good. Probably the best thing would be for you to go home, as you suggest, for a visit. That would give you time to get yourself in hand. But don't give up your home and husband unless as a last resort. Your husband does not realize your position in the least. He's used to having his mother manage things and he cannot see that it is not the right way to treat his wife.

LONELY BLUE EYES: I presume your boy friend thought that when he asked you not to go with other boys that was tantamount to the "young steady" which usually prefaces engagement. And the fact that he is not very prosperous at present accounts for his not asking you to name the day.

PEP'S SWEETHEART: If you are so interested in the second boy, I don't believe you love the first well enough to marry him. As to No. 2, why not phone him and ask him to come to see you at a certain time if he still wants to be friends or write him to the same effect, and then make up your mind not to disagree over trifles.

How To Achieve Beauty

By MME. HELENA RUBINSTEIN

UNGRACEFUL LINES

Beauty of the neck lies in just two things—its lines and its skin. If lines are ungraceful, they may be shaped to perfect form by suitable exercises. Necks rarely receive enough exercise, and they are seldom stretched to their full extent, so that the muscles either become swathed in fat or else are shrunken and flabby. Exercise should be used to stimulate the circulation through the neck and develop firm and supple muscles in place of fatty or scrawny ones. Improved circulation also overcomes sallowness and makes the skin finer.

A beautiful neck shows a graceful sweep from collar bone to chin, from shoulders to ears and from nape of neck down the spine. A neck that is either too fat or too thin adds years to a woman's apparent age.

Some necks are naturally short and thick-set, and are apt to give a stout appearance to any woman, however young, unless she takes great care in the selection of her haircut, hat and dress. Exercises should be used for the strengthening of the neck muscles, and nourishing creams for the youthifying of tissues about the throat and chin. The muscles running from the angle of the jaws and the corner of the mouth up to the temples are the ones that keep the lines of the chin tight and firm, and they must not be allowed to sag. They should be given a thorough massage for a few minutes every day.

Here is a group of exercises which are excellent for the development of firm, plastic muscles in the neck and upper back.

1. Stand erect. Place hands on back of head, let chin drop forward on chest, and relax shoulders forward.
2. Pull head slowly upward, using resistance of rear neck muscles, until head and elbow are pulled well back. Do this fifteen to twenty times.
3. Take position on hands and knees back flat.
4. Raise head backward and hollow the back without changing position of knees and arms.
5. Let head fall downward, completely relaxed, and hump the back upward.
6. Repeat fifteen times, resting after each five.

SPORT SNAP SHOTS

FRAMED
by Phil

The committee of intercollegiate athletics of the Ohio College Association placed itself on record Saturday as believing that basic responsibility for the conduct of intercollegiate sports rests with the trustees and the administration of colleges or institutions of higher learning and charges that these officers and their faculties can no longer live up to their responsibilities nor discharge the trust reposed in them as leaders and guides of the youth committed to their care "without giving early and serious consideration to measures which may certainly mitigate, if not entirely eliminate those evils now commonly charged against intercollegiate competition."

The plth of the report, which was presented at Columbus, is that by making the representative teams the culmination of two, or better three years of previous training in a well administered and well coached intramural system."

The committee, composed of representatives of Akron, Denison, Otterbein, Kenyon and Oberlin Colleges, believes that the adoption of this system, would remove much of the commercialism of athletics. It believes further that it would work for the best interests of the boy by replacing the grind and drudgery of practice for varsity by the recreative benefits of the intramural sport.

The boy, it is claimed, would actually play more football under the suggested system, as intramural games come at least twice a week. There need necessarily be no less coaching, the committee points out—as a matter of fact, such a system would require more coaching. And of course several times as many boys would get to play the game as at present.

Only seniors, or juniors and seniors, would participate in varsity games.

There is another point made very clear in the report, namely, the responsibility for intercollegiate athletics rests with the trustees and administrative officers of the colleges and universities, rather than with the students and alumni.

The committee was appointed and submitted its recommendations for these reasons:

"Because conditions in intercollegiate sport disclosed by the now famous bulletin No. 23 of the Carnegie Foundation for the Advancement of Teaching are such as to 'bring discredit and disgrace to our institutions of higher learning'."

"Because athletic practices brought to light at the University of Iowa and by common knowledge known to exist within our own state have resulted in unpleasant and unfortunate intercollegiate relations."

"Because public opinion is again forming in opposition to the present system of conducting intercollegiate football."

"Because we believe that undergraduates throughout the country are gradually but steadily becoming critical of and dissatisfied with present methods of conducting intercollegiate football."

"Because Presidents Hopkins of Dartmouth; Lowell, of Harvard; Wilkins, of Oberlin; Day of Union; and Holt, of Rollins College have voiced vigorous protests in our methods of selecting and developing our intercollegiate teams and of staging commercialized spectacles."

The committee feels that no more opportune time than the present is likely to be found for the inauguration of a new and progressive policy in the conduct of intercollegiate sports.

By modifying the method of developing varsity teams the committee believes that the lure of intercollegiate competition may be utilized to arouse and hold the interest of a greater number of potential athletes.

This, it is believed, would work to the end that the drudgery of intensive training may be replaced by practice recreative in character and by experience gained in actually playing games.

The suggested plan would also replace the love of notoriety by the love of sport for sport's sake alone and "all the fine characteristics now generally admitted as inherent in team games may be made available for those of the rank and file who have the desire and will to persevere, rather than for the very few selected and pre-selected outstanding athletes as in our present system."

BELIEVED HARMFUL TO PLAYERS CLAIMS STATE DEPARTMENT

May Doom Tournaments; Play Girls' Rules In Greene County

COLUMBUS, O., April 7.—Asserting that the "traditional hysteria after victory and melancholia over defeat" was harmful to girls of Ohio high schools, the state department of education today has issued a report attacking county basketball tournaments and inter-scholastic competition for girls.

Girls' teams, the report insisted, should be coached by women only, because "men do not recognize the limitation of girls and cannot discuss health problems frankly with them."

County basketball tournaments were condemned by the report and interscholastic competition for girls was termed as "questionable."

Interscholastic games, the official communique insisted, "do not come first," and are "nuisances."

With the signature of John L. Clifton, state educational director affixed to it, the report condemned football for girls, basketball under boys' rules, long runs, jumping in competition, hurdling, weight throwing and pole vaulting and classed soccer and baseball with a hard ball as "doubtful."

In listing the games that were not harmful to the young misses of high schools, the report included volleyball, tennis, horseback, nine-court basketball, fifty-yard dashes and relay races.

The question involved came to the forefront about three years ago and has been a matter of much discussion since then. It is the first time, however, that a state department issued an official report, and it may lead the death blow to county basketball tournaments for girls.

According to H. R. Townsend, commissioner of Ohio high school athletics, seventy such tournaments were held in the state last year. The state department of education, Townsend believes, has the power to enforce the recommendations it made in the report.

Eighteen Ohio counties do not countenance county tournaments for girls. Greene County permits girls' tournaments played under girls' rules.

TIGER WILLIAMS TO OPPOSE ROSALES IN DAYTON RING BOUT

DAYTON, O., April 7.—When Joe Sekyra ran out of his scheduled fight here Wednesday night with Rosey Rosales, Indian fighter who won over Joe in one round in a Buffalo ring two weeks ago, the North Dayton Club immediately signed Tiger Roy Williams, sensational Chicago light-heavy to take his place against the Indian. Williams jumped at the chance to battle Rosales as he is anxious to show Dayton fans that he is a better fighter than his sensational fellow townsman Larry Johnson. Rosales is the only light-heavy who has defeated Johnson and Williams is out to prove he is better than Johnson by whipping the Indian here next Wednesday night.

Johnny Curtin, local light-weight ace will come to the turning point of his career when he tackles Jimmy Reed, a first flight light-weight of Erie, Pa., on the same card. Reed has beaten most every light-weight in Indiana and Ohio and last summer decisively Mike Dundone of Rock Island at Cincinnati.

Another ten rounder will bring together Pedlar Palmer, the secko kid and 'One Round Hogan' of the Pacific coast. Hogan is one tough bird having won, among other victories over Pacific coast fighters, Andy Mitchell, Jack Kearns' heavy-weight who gave Joe Sekyra two tough fights here last year.

NEW EDUCATIONAL STANDARD WRECKS ATHLETIC TEAMS

Wilberforce University's requirement of a higher standard of scholarship recently promulgated by President G. H. Jones and put into effect as of March 20, has played havoc with the baseball and track teams. In the language of Coach Graves the track team "just ain't" and Coach Lane of the baseball squad says he has a pitcher and an outfielder to uphold the prowess of the Green and Gold on the diamond this spring.

The scholarship requirement at Wilberforce now is about the highest of any school in the country, in addition to the quarterly final grades for academic credit, a monthly grade determines eligibility for participation in any extra-curricular activity. Any student with a monthly "D" is ineligible to participate in any social, athletic or non-scholastic activity for the ensuing month.

"D" average wouldn't be so bad, according to the opinions expressed by many of the boys, but the requirement of a "C" in all subjects is a bit stiff, considering that most of the Frosh and Sophs wrestle with physics, chemistry, and math as well as English, sociology and primary methods. Chief duties of Coaches Graves and Lane now are persuading instructors to give their boys a little outside tutoring and exhorting the boys to study harder to come under the wire at the next grade posting April 12.

ANTIOCH DEFEATED BY DAYTON FLYERS IN DIAMOND OPENER

Heavy Hitting By Dayton Overcomes Antioch Lead

Timely hitting combined with eight Antioch errors enabled the University of Dayton Flyers to hand the Antioch College Division "B" baseball team a 15 to 5 lapping in the season's opener for both teams Saturday afternoon on the varsity diamond at Dayton.

Adam Westerkamp, star senior right-hander for the Flyers from Cincinnati, who has never lost a college game he has pitched, worked the first five innings and when he retired from the mound the score stood at 8 to 2 in Dayton's favor.

Antioch made things interesting for the Flyers for three and a half innings and enjoyed a 2 to 1 lead when the last half of the fourth rolled around. In this stanza the Flyers uncorked a four-run rally and added three runs in each of the next two innings.

Pat Gleason, veteran shortstop, and acting Flyer captain for the day, knocked two home runs. Pavey, starting pitcher for Antioch, was effective for three rounds but finally gave way to Confer. The Flyers barely outlast Antioch, eleven blows to nine.

Antioch's next game is with Cedarville College at Yellow Springs Tuesday afternoon. Box score:

Will Discuss Type Of Ball At Meeting

Whether the recently-adopted ten-inch, outside seam ball will be in vogue in the softball games this summer or whether the inside seam type of the twelve-inch outside seam sphere will be used will be thrashed out at a called meeting of directors of the Xenia Playground Association and the Softball Commission at 7:30 o'clock Monday night at The George Dodds and Sons Granite Co. offices at 115 W. Main St.

Announcement is made that a supply of membership tickets has been printed and that voluntary donations of 50 cents or more will entitle softball fans to become members of the association.

Each of the softball teams has been furnished with twenty tickets to sell and supplies of membership cards have also been left at the Harness Clear Store, Wood's barber shop and the Whitlow barber shop.

MANY CANDIDATES REPORT FOR TEAM

A swarm of candidates, seeking places on the Xenia semi-pro baseball team being organized here for the approaching season, reported at Washington Park for initial practice Sunday afternoon, indicating that plenty of diamond talent will be available. A large number of local players are trying out for berths on the independent nine. A practice game may be played next Sunday afternoon with the probability the season will be formally inaugurated Easter Sunday.

"LOOKING AND FEELING 100% BETTER," SAYS MRS. RODMAN

Indianapolis, Ind.—"For many years I lived constantly in the dread of constipation," writes Mrs. G. M. Rodman of this city, "exerting the greatest care in my selection of food. Upon the advice of my doctor, I commenced taking a small quantity of Pluto Water each night and morning, diluted in plain hot water. It is an unequalled preventive. Since beginning to use Pluto Water regularly I both look and feel a hundred per cent better."

Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana, and is sold at drug stores and fountains everywhere.

Mrs. Rodman's case is only one of hundreds on file. Pluto Water gently, surely flushes the system clean of waste poisons that cause untold suffering. It cannot gripe, cannot form a habit. Mrs. G. M. Rodman Works in from thirty minutes to two hours. It is Nature's own way of relieving—preventing constipation.

Pluto Water is bottled at French Lick Springs, Indiana, and is sold at drug stores and fountains everywhere.

The strong arm of the law halts the spitter whose vile and vicious habit menaces his fellow citizens. But for every spitter caught hundreds escape... hundreds who still roll cigars with dirty fingers and spit on the ends! In fact, more than half of all cigars made in this country are made by hand, and therefore subject to the risk of spit!

CLEVELAND ARREST COMPLETES SEARCH FOR CUTTEN ROBBER

Yesterday's capture elated Cutten. He recalled the robbery in which the gunmen locked him and his wife and brother and five servants in a vault to suffocate. He revealed that he has had private detectives trailing Rosenberg across the continent for years.

"The money meant nothing," the magnate explained. "But when a man comes into my house and robs me and my family and then locks us in a vault where we might have suffocated—well, I'll get him if it takes every dollar I have at my disposal."

Detectives employed by Cutten have followed Rosenberg from the Pacific coast to the Atlantic, from the Gulf of Mexico to Canada. Working as an insurance broker and a bond salesman, Rosenberg has moved from city to city. He realized he was being trailed and used many aliases, Cutten revealed. Rosenberg lately fled Detroit and sought refuge in Cleveland.

"That robbery was a fiendish piece of cruelty," I said then that I'd spend every dollar at my command to put them where they belong—behind the bars."

When they invaded the Cutten home the robbers took $20,000 worth of jewelry, $500 in cash and twenty-five cases of whiskey, then locked the financier in a basement vault to die a slow death.

MRS. MCCORMICK IS BETTING FAVORITE IN PRIMARY BATTLE

Mrs. McCormick has based her campaign principally upon the League Court issue. Sen. Deneen voted for American adherence to the court. Mrs. McCormick, like her husband, is unalterably opposed to it.

It has been a slam-bang fight, with no holds barred, and with the confusing element of Chicago and Cook County politics injected at every phase.

The so-called city hall or Thompson machine is supporting Mrs. McCormick, not, as the politically wise ones say, because they love Mrs. McCormick, but because they love Senator Deneen a great deal less.

NOTICE FOR PAROLE Jess Allen No. 60357 a prisoner now confined in the Ohio Penitentiary, has been recommended to the OHIO BOARD OF CLEMENCY by the Warden and Chaplain of the Ohio Penitentiary as worthy of consideration for parole. Said application will be for hearing on and after May 17th, 1930.

D. J. KONZO, Parole and Record Clerk. (3-24-31, 4-7.)

Kansas City Mayor by Record Majority Vote

Mayor-elect Bryce B. Smith, of Kansas City, Missouri, has been elected by the largest majority ever obtained by a Mayorality candidate since the inauguration of non-partisan councilmanic government. The new Mayor, who is the millionaire president of the Consumers Bread Company, will take the oath of office April 10.

At the movies yesterday—I was wishing you had been there and you could have seen for yourself—There was a perfectly stunning prima donna, some Chicago star, who sang in the talks. It was lovely. But the crowd fidgeted through the first number she sang in Italian. The second number was French and several people whistled. When her last number came, I think it was Italian, too, they stamped and whistled and called till you couldn't hear her.

"How horrible," Elanda shuddered. "You can't believe people will be so beastly in a theater."

"Well, they were. You couldn't even hear the music when she was finishing. Of course, that doesn't happen always. But people who sit at home and listen to the radio as a rule have pretty much the same feelings. They want to hear

HIGH HAT A RADIO ROMANCE

By ALMA SIOUX SCARBERRY Author of "THE FLAT TIRE"

READ THIS FIRST:

Elanda Lee, 20, from Jordan, Georgia, after four years in Atlanta singing in a small radio studio, goes to New York with WWBC, a hook-up. She is high-hat, and wants to sing opera. Here she meets Suwanee Collier, a charming, jolly young ukulele player. Later the son of the owner of WWBC, Gregory Du Pont, takes her up. Carmel Prevost, a society girl, wants Greg and Elanda's job. Her latest move is to invite Elanda to meet Lord Percival Dusenberry. Elanda forgets a date with Suwanee because she is so excited.

Greg comes as Elanda and the lord are leaving. He rushes her into the elevator before she can explain. Greg resents her interference when she tells him Elanda is a poor little social climber with no background. He leaves in anger.

Suwanee and Greg meet at Elanda's on Sunday afternoon.

Andree, Elanda's girl friend's baby, rushes out of the bedroom to Suwanee, and he sings her to sleep to quiet her. Greg later makes fun of him for it, and he and Elanda have their first quarrel when she defends him. She doesn't know why she has done it.

Du Pont, senior, recommends her for Miss La Paloma in the Paloma Soap Hour.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XXV Elanda ran into Suwanee coming from a morning program.

"You look as though you had just struck gold," he stopped her.

"Oh, Suwanee," she squeezed his arm and her gray eyes lighted, "it's better than that. Mr. Du Pont—I've just been up in the office—has recommended me for La Paloma—in the La Paloma Soap Hour. They're going to let me sing operatic things. Isn't it wonderful? I can't believe it yet!"

She forgot her hand was still on his arm. He put his hand over hers. "No one is happier about it than I am, my dear. Mr. Du Pont stopped me this morning when I came in and told me about it. I was going to call up and congratulate you."

She realized she was still holding to him and took her hand away from his arm.

"I'm so excited I don't know what I'm doing."

"I thought at first you were going to lose your head with joy and kiss me."

"It's a wonder I didn't."

"Well, there still is plenty of time."

She drew back mockingly and imitated his voice:

The Theater

Screen players found no difficulty in delivering their lines when the talkies became popular because they delivered lines even in silent pictures, says Rowland V. Lee, Paramount director.

"Players always have spoken lines, humorous and dramatic, in motion pictures," Lee points out. "The only difference nowadays is that the microphone picks up these words and they have to be more carefully worked out and remembered."

"In the early days of films, actors said anything they wished, but with the perfection of photography so that lips could be read, this was speedily remedied. Deaf persons were always writing in to inform a producer or fan columnist that the Roman soldiers in such and such a picture, were telling Scotch jokes in the background."

"Directors soon began to demand that players speak lines as the action required. Scenarios always included speeches which were for a double purpose—to suggest titles for caption writers and to guide players as to what to say and to think during a scene. Whenever we had a comedy gag which would be flashed as a subtitle, we made the comedian speak this line in order that the reaction would be correct."

"It is well known that many spectators on the set during filming of scenes would be thrilled or caused to weep. This couldn't have been possible if the players had been talking nonsense or merely moving their lips. So, when talking pictures came, players merely went on saying their lines. But now they have to study them more diligently and we have rehearsals with the corresponding action before filming starts."

"This has reacted to the benefit of sound films by making the action much smoother. We are informed from foreign countries, where sound pictures are often shown as 'silents' that even when the dialogue is deleted, the pictures give a much more realistic effect, due to the clarity with which actors now pick up their cues."

PICTURE RECALLS EARLY XENIA

Painting At City Hall Subject Of Story By Xenia Physic-an-Historian

An old painting of the Pennsylvania Railroad depot in Xenia, produced in 1848 by an artist now unknown, now hanging in City Hall, with a background showing the city as it looked eighty-two years ago, is the subject of a sketch written by Dr. W. A. Galloway, Pennsylvania Railroad surgeon in Xenia, which appears in the most recent issue of The Pennsylvania News.

Dr. Galloway, who is president of the Greene County Historical Society, is considered a leading authority on Greene County history. His article describing the painting and its background follows:

This large canvas, sixty-eight by forty-four inches, was the work of an unknown artist of unusual ability. The perspective and background details are carried in excellent proportions; the color tones suggest the clearness seen in a Hogarth canvas. The artist's skill in mixing his colors is apparent in the vitality and freedom from somber tones after eight years of unprotected front. It would seem that he possessed, to a degree at least, the color-mixing art of the great painters of the seventeenth century.

In a personal talk in 1910 with Hoffman, who painted the famous picture of "The Christ Child in the Temple," now in the Dresden Art gallery, this famous artist asked the writer for his criticism of the painting. The reply was:

"If the colors remain permanent it is destined to rank next to Raphael's 'Sistine Madonna' in this great art collection." "Ah," Dr. Hoffman exclaimed; "You have touched my greatest anxiety. I fear we have lost the art of mixing permanent colors so well known to the great master artists of the past."

The Xenia depot painting is not initialed or otherwise individually marked. No artist of the ability shown in this picture is known to have lived in Xenia at the time it was painted. Its age is determined by the thirty stars in the blue field of the beautiful national flag, floating full mast above the depot roof. Wisconsin, the thirtieth state, was admitted to the Union in 1848. This date, corroborated by incidental points of history, is believed to be correct.

The Little Miami Railroad was finished and in operation in 1846 between Cincinnati and Springfield, O., (via Xenia), its terminal points. For many years it was affectionately called "Mi Little ami" by its operatives. This mark of attachment seems to be the birth time and place of the sentiments now grown into a great asset, in divisions, places, and membership, with the Pennsylvania Lines. It is now a deep-rooted manifest that cements together into one family the administrative and executive departments of this great corporation.

Depot Brought Hotel Guests
The painting shows: The quaint water tower, the small nearby shops, and the most attractive depot-hotel building to be found at that time on the two lines. Accommodations for transient or other guests were also provided. In the upper windows is shown the liberal hotel patronage the depot enjoyed.

A short description of the interior arrangements will give an idea of what at that time was considered an extravagant depot-hotel for a small-town station. The dining room and a large lunch counter, two large waiting rooms, the telegraph quarters, and the ticket office shared the first floor space.

A dozen guest rooms and a large parlor, on the second floor, were well furnished for the comforts of transient travelers.

All trains stopped at "Xenia station" for its famous cuisine. A number of widely known Bonifaces obtained their boyhood training there, among whom was the nationally known proprietor of French Lick Springs, the late Hon. Thomas Taggart.

Painting is Valuable Record
The town lying about the station, christened "Xenia" from the Greek word "Xenos," meaning "hospitality," soon shared the ever growing reputation of the depot-hotel, and both became warm spots in the hearts of the traveling public.

The painting is a valuable record of the "State of the Art" in railway construction and equipment in 1848. The type of the early-wood-burning engine and the little wood constructed passenger cars is faithfully shown, as are horse-drawn vehicles, and the formally dressed men of the period. Even the fences about the town are shown to be the favorite "post and rail" construction of that period. The accurate artistry of the painting is a valuable contribution to the history of a period in American life when there were many pleasures to enjoy and few hardships to regret.

ALL STOLEN AUTOS ARE NOW RECOVERED

All of the eleven automobiles reported stolen in Xenia since March 1 have now been recovered for their owners, Police Chief O. H. Cornwell announces.

The record became perfect when police were notified late Saturday night that a Peerless sedan, stolen from a locked garage at the residence of J. C. Williamson, 246 N. Detroit St., last Tuesday night, had been found abandoned in Chillicothe, O.

Identity of the owner was traced through the license plates after the machine had crashed into an abutment, damaging the front end. The driver, apparently the one who had stolen the car, fled after the accident.

...more than all other electric refrigerators combined

Today Frigidaires are being bought at a rate far beyond the most optimistic forecasts. 1930 promises to break all records in the history of the business.

Everywhere, the preference for Frigidaire is so decided—Frigidaire is the choice of the majority by such overwhelming odds—that the number of Frigidaires in use now totals more than 1,300,000—more than all other electric refrigerators combined.

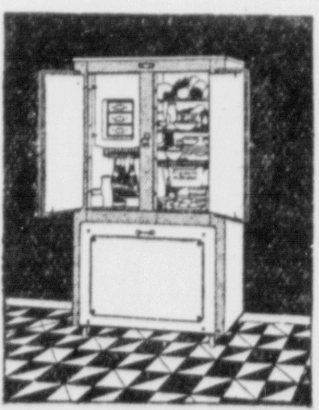

The reasons for this outstanding preference are easy to understand.

Frigidaire is equipped with the famous "Cold Control"—a simple patented device that enables you to speed the freezing of ice cubes and desserts, at will.

Every model has a surplus of power—insuring low refrigerator temperatures regardless of heat in the kitchen. The mechanism is concealed and quiet. All household models have convenient elevated shelves. And all combine the beauty of porcelain with the strength of steel. They are smooth, lustrous, rust-proof Porcelain-on-steel inside and out.

Then, too, in addition to all these features, Frigidaire now offers the new Hydrator—a moist air compartment that "freshens" vegetables and keeps them crisp and firm until used.
